Russell Standard Corporation Joins the Marcellus Shale Coalition

Company focuses its infrastructure expertise on regional natural gas industry

Pittsburgh (September 1, 2011) – Russell Standard Corporation, the leader in proprietary paving solutions, processes, and machinery has become an Associate Member of the Marcellus Shale Coalition. The Coalition is committed to the responsible development of natural gas from the Marcellus Shale geological formation.

“As a member of the Coalition, we have the ability to introduce our expertise and new products to an industry that is in need of our services prior to and after the safe extraction of natural gas throughout the region,” said Matt Johnson, president of Russell Standard.

For over eighty years, Russell Standard has been a leader in providing paving solutions to municipalities and state agencies throughout the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic states. The company’s expertise in road construction and paving will be essential to the many contractors who enter the region’s private and municipal lands to safely gather natural gas.

Russell Standard is committed to improving the communities that it serves through better infrastructure and it is excited to share this common goal with the Marcellus Shale Coalition. “The Marcellus Shale play has had a significantly positive impact on Pennsylvania’s economy as thousands of jobs have been created and millions of dollars have been fed into the local tax base. For Russell Standard, there is tremendous opportunity to support the Coalition’s growth with our capabilities in excavation, road building, and road maintenance,” said Ryan Baldwin, vice president of marketing and sales at Russell Standard.
